Dear Sir.—In reply to yours in relation to the "Avery" Stubble Diggers and Fertilizer Distributors. I would say that I have been using the Diggers almost constantly since received them, and am highly pleased with them. As the name signifies, I find them specially adapted to the work of loosening the soil about rattoon stools, and they may be used to great advantage either before or after the Fertilizer Distributors, thereby putting the rattoon fields in the very best condition for a rapid growth. They are a light draft machine, and I would recommend them to any plantation owner.

The Fertilizer Distributor is a great labor saving machine, and I find that I shall need one more to fill our requirements here.

I remain, yours respectfully,

And I find that there is a thicker stand of cane where it has been stubble dug. The many more works in fertilizers on rattoon stools without any further hand labor, mixing them thoroughly with the soil and allowing them to get to the roots of the thoroughly with the soil and allowing them to get to the roots of the

The Fertilizer Distributors I have had at work for some time and I have fertilized about four hundred acres with them thus far and they are doing, all the makers claim for them, distributing the fertilizers in an even manner on each side of the cane and in whatever quantity desired. They are a good labor saving machine and are doing the work of several men. These machines are of light draft and strongly made and there is nothing liable to get out of order. I can fully recommend these to plantation 1 remain, yours truly,
